Gentlemen:

Re: Your April 1, 1979 Software Agreement, as amended, with Western Electric Covering UNIX*/32V Time-Sharing System, Version 1.0 ("32V")

It is our policy to permit our software licensees to distribute their own versions of source code for a licensed software package to others licensed by us for the same package. Procedures for such distributions were discussed generally in my April 10, 1978 letter to your Ms. Susan L. Graham. You have now requested that you be permitted to distribute your version of source code for 32V to our licensees for UNIX System III.

In my April 10, 1978 letter I stated that we did not wish to assume the burden of verifying the status of potential recipients of such software distributions. We have changed that policy with respect to distributions to licensees of UNIX System III. Accordingly, we propose that you be permitted to distribute your version of source code for 32V to our licensees for UNIX System III provided that you:

- (i) verify the status of each requesting licensee by examining a copy provided by such licensee of such licensee's software agreement for UNIX System III;
- (ii) confirm such status by telephoning AT&T's Technology Licensing Organization on 919-697-6530;
- (iii) maintain a record of each such confirmation and distribution, such record to include, by licensee, the date of such confirmation, the name of the AT&T person providing such confirmation, the date of distribution of your version of source code and the name of the person receiving your version; and

- (iv) forward to AT&T's Technology Licensing Organization at the above address a copy of such record for the preceding three months within thirty (30) days after each March 31, June 30, September 30 and December 31.

If it is convenient for you, you may also use such procedure in distributing your version of 32V to our licensees for 32V.

We understand that your distribution of your version of 32V is fee-free except for a nominal service charge to cover the cost of distribution.

If you agree with the above proposal, please so indicate by signing and dating the attached copy of this letter in the spaces provided therefor below and returning such copy to us.

Very truly yours,
